

Expertise versus Knowledge: Popular Health and Landscapes of Reform

at Reed Hall, University of Exeter
Monday 25th June 2012

Hosted by:
The Centre for Medical History, University of Exeter

Workshop organisers:
Sarah Hayes and Debbie Palmer

Contact details

www.
[http://centres.exeter.ac.uk/
medhist/](http://centres.exeter.ac.uk/medhist/)

supported by:
wellcome^{trust}

This one-day interdisciplinary workshop seeks to explore and engage in discussion about the following themes:

- conflict between the trained 'expertise' of medical professionals and the experience of lay individuals and patients;
- tensions between different professions;
- conflict between lay groups;
- similarities of opinion between groups and individuals with varying agendas.

The workshop will bring together contributors from a variety of disciplines, including the history of medicine, politics and philosophy.

Keynote speaker: Professor Anne Borsay, Swansea University