What can I say to someone about their behaviour?

What you said earlier really bothered me…

I'm saying something because I care about you…

I don't like what you just did.

I know you well enough to know that you would not want to hurt someone …

I'm embarrassed for you.

How would you feel if someone did that to your sister?

That is so not cool.

I'm really worried about your girlfriend's safety.

I wonder if you realise how that feels / comes across.

You'll never pull again.

When you do that, it makes her feel bad.

It's not normal, you're out of ...

Did you mean to be so rough?

I care about you, but I won't put up with you treating her/him like that.

I'm losing respect for you.

I'm surprised to see you act like that, you're better than that.

Sorry but this makes me really uncomfortable. It's not right.

Loving her doesn't include abusing her.

Call me if you feel like you're losing control.

What you've done is a crime. You could be arrested for this.
